

Dream design

Simon, Amanda and Adam at Cookhouse Design, York

When Simon Corbally and his team at Cookhouse Design, York, say they offer a full design and project management service on their kitchens, they really mean it.

Once you've visited Cookhouse Design's showroom in York and received their advice and free brochures, an extensive quotation and design service follows that literally leaves no stone unturned.

They will spend at least two days coming up with a design – an unusual amount of time for a company to invest, but Cookhouse Design are keen to avoid any grey areas.

Their process includes a free technical survey and consultation to discuss design ideas and installation requirements, plus any building, electrical, plumbing, plastering, tiling and any heating works.

You will also receive photo-realistic images created the latest design software, which has been specifically developed for the purpose over many years of collaboration between designers and customers. It's fully up to date with manufacturers' catalogues, so the designs you see on the screen accurately replicate the finished article.

Finally, the design will be accompanied by a full trades schedule, so you know in great detail what work will take place, when it will be carried out and what the cost is. Cookhouse Design's installers have been with the company for 14 years, and are all thoroughly tried and trusted local tradespeople. You can return to the showroom at this point to ask any final questions, and see for yourself the various items that have been included in your proposal. If you're using granite for your new worktops, you can even select your own slabs from Cookhouse Design's supplier.

A visit to the showroom in the heart of York is an inspiring experience. The quality of their life-sized kitchen displays make it immediately obvious why Simon has won several kitchen design awards. Choose from more than 200 kitchen door designs, which can be painted any colour from the RAL code number, including Dulux, Crown and Farrow and Ball. Appliances are available from every major manufacturer; they are a Bosch partner and York's only Aga showroom – so if you want to browse Aga's range before you buy, Cookhouse Design is where you need to go!

With free parking and a friendly team of staff to help you, a visit to Cookhouse Design's showroom is where your dream kitchen begins to come to life. A typical thankyou comment comes from happy customers David and Sheila, whose thank you message said: "An absolutely superb design and fitted by a superb craftsman, from design to finish every part of the process was done to the highest standards. We are highly delighted with the result and would highly recommend cookhouse design to our friends considering a new kitchen."

Cookhouse Design pledge to provide their customers with thoroughly unique design and extensive choice, with no off-the-shelf products and higher specification models always available. Any budget can be catered for, and prices are matched with national kitchen retailers, but you will receive a personal, bespoke service from start to finish with Cookhouse Design. That means you'll always be able to talk to the same person when you call, make your choices in a pressure-free, relaxed environment, take your time throughout the project and receive exemplary aftercare.

Cookhouse Design was founded by Simon Corbally, who has been in the kitchen industry for 23 years, 14 of which have been spent running his own kitchen showroom and manufacturing business. He was joined in the business two years ago by his son Adam Corbally, the kitchen designer, who is a qualified designer with two years' experience with national kitchen companies, and lots of fresh ideas drawn from the latest design trends.

Simon's wife Amanda completes the team, taking charge of administration and accounts and dressing the displays, which attract constant attention and contribute much to the pristine look of the showroom.
